Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Applicant argues:

Helmick fails to teach an enhance system functionality. Accordingly, Helmick does not teach determining if the instructor or user has rights, based on their role, to utilize enhanced system functionality as recited in claim 1. Or granting or denying a user access to the new functionality based on the role of the user in extensible educational system as recited in claims 7, 9, and 13.

Examiner's response:

Helmick teaches an on-line educational system for display of educational material based on user roles (see at least FIGS. 3A-3B). The web pages of FIGS. 3A-3B display educational materials and links to other system functionalities (i.e. enhanced system functionality) based on user roles. The user can invoke these system functionalities by click on the links. For example, FIG. 3A displays educational materials and an index section 816 (i.e. links) permits an instructor to invoke other system functionalities such as a course home page selection 818, a document collaboration selection 820, an e-mail class selection 822, etc. These links are considered the enhanced system functionalities of the educational system invoke by using the web pages based on the user' role (see the office action).
